The first horizontal rule shows which teams will automatically play in the Champions League, while the second reveals which team can still qualify. The third marks which teams will play in the UEFA Cup and the fourth lists the “unlucky losers” who are headed down to the relegation for the upcoming season.

In the last column of our chart, we used sparklines to visualize each team’s complete record for the 2006/2007 season. A blue upward whisker stands for a win, a red downward whisker for a loss and a black dash in the middle for a draw.

The sparklines were generated using SparkMaker, our add-in for Excel, which is available for download at <http://www.bissantz.com/sparkmaker>.
